The Cleavevent Group announces its entry into the New Zealand and South East Asia markets

The Cleavevent Group, a leader in the delivery of property, waste management and consultancy services, today announced the appointment of Mr. Robi Rogerson as Managing Director for Australia, New Zealand and South East Asia reporting to Group CEO, Nicko Mavro.

Robi, currently the Group HR Director, being previously the Chief Executive Officer and Group General Manager of integrated services companies, was selected to lead the Group's expansion to the New Zealand and South East Asian region.

Robi was extensively involved in the re-structure of the Australian operation under his role as HR Director and was instrumental in the change from National to State based operations, placing focus on customers and their needs as well as the staff responsible for delivering the service.

"I am excited with the opportunity afforded to me by the Group CEO and the Board and look forward to the challenge ahead." Mr Rogerson said.

"We have a great team of professionals whose focus will be on meeting our customer's expectations and the development and positive engagement of our most important resource, our people."

"With the changing market in Australia and South East Asia, our great service offer and the excellent team of professionals in place, we are in a great position to expand the Cleavevent Brand into new markets."

Having worked in the service industry for over 20 years, Robi has a strong commitment to customer satisfaction and has a clear understanding of the new challenges facing the service industry.

"I look forward to working with Chris Katsiavos, CEO of Cleavevent Australia and his team to assist in the further development of Cleavevent and the delivery of a new range of services".

Nicko Mavro, Group CEO said today.

"I am pleased to announce the appointment of Robi Rogerson."

"As testament to our internal staff development policy it pleases me that the person to lead the Cleavevent's business in the region comes from our existing team of executives. Robi brings with him a wealth of experience that will contribute to enhancing the Group operations, whilst expanding the range of services we deliver."

After the recent announcement of the expansion of the Australian team, Chris Katsiavos, CEO of Cleavevent Australia will be assisting Robi with the new Regional Strategy by also taking over responsibility for the New Zealand team.

Robi will commence his role effective immediately.
